If you have a suspected injector failure within our warranty period, we offer two options below to get the issue resolved.

1. Purchase replacement injector(s) up-front. We will authorize your credit card for 30 days. Return label is included with shipment. Once suspected faulty injector(s) is returned, it will be tested to determine if failure meets our warranty coverage. If injector(s) is deemed a warranty, we will release credit card authorization. If injector(s) is deemed non-warranty, we will capture payment from authorization, less core fees.
2. Send in suspected faulty injector(s). Customer responsibility on shipping injector(s) to Full Force Diesel. Once we receive injector(s), it will be tested within our current lead time. If deemed a warranty, we will repair and ship back to customer at no cost. If deemed non-warranty, customer will be contacted. We will review our findings and provide a quote for repairs including shipping charges to customer.
